

SOMETHING FOR ALL PALATES

► COLONIAL LEISURE GROUP'S IMPLEMENTATION OF ENTITY MANAGEMENT SOFTWARE

CASE STUDY

FACTS

Established in 2008, Colonial Leisure Group (CLG) has interests in a number of hospitality venues across Australia.

Having recently acquired a number of hotels to add to its portfolio of venues, CLG needed a system to more effectively meet its governance and compliance requirements.

CRITICAL ACTION

CLG selected Computershare Governance Services' Global Entity Management System (GEMS) as the ideal solution to meet its requirements.

Within days of implementation, letters and files for venues and hundreds of employees were uploaded quickly into GEMS.

RESULTS

CLG is now able to manage and track its corporate data, venue and property information, employee records and regulatory filings and compliance more effectively.

GEMS has also helped CLG to avoid duplication of data, reduce the need for paper files and manage critical dates for licenses and other regulatory requirements.

All users have secure online access to vital information such as licences and contracts, which they can access at any time from any location.

"We needed a system that could be maintained centrally and at the same time provide secure, online access to our many venue and operations managers across Australia. We found the system easy to understand, making it relatively painless to upload employee records and associated forms for electronic storage. We are now able to perform quick searches to find current and historical records, accessed from anywhere."
